FOR SAVING THE REVENUES

Action Under the Law Authorizing Reassessments.

HEARING GIVEN TODAY

Defects in the Law Corrected by a Recent Enactment—Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railway Schedule Must Be Amended Within Thirty Days—Electric Street Lighting.

The Commissioners will today give the first hearing under the law, enacted at the last session of Congress, empowering them to reassess property upon which the original assessment has been for any reason declared to be in error.

The assessments covered by this law were for various improvements made, for which the property benefited was liable for its proportion of the expense, but which, upon technical points raised were quashed by the courts.

This law took effect April 24 last, and all subsequent assessments thus nullified, whether for water mains, sewerage, sidewalks, paving, or any other form of improvement, may be reassessed if the order of reassessment be issued within ninety days from the date of the court's decree of annulment.

This provision does not prevent the quashing of assessments, but it enables the Commissioners eventually to collect the tax and avoid a loss in the revenues. Taken altogether, the faulty assessments set aside by the courts in the past few years have cost the District $300,000 or $400,000.

BASIS OF ACTION.
The pleas upon which the cases were decided varied, but were often based upon a faulty description of the property, and in the case of August Burdett the assessment for water mains was based upon the official which it was claimed the law recognized—the water registrar. There was in fact no such officer, and the defect had to be remedied by the designated John J. Beall as such, he being then and still is the chief of the water department.

The enactment of the measure became a necessity, and at the urgent solicitation of the Commissioners Congress passed it.

The appeal to the Commissioners of the North Capital and Eckington Citizens' Association for a better schedule on the Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railway has proved to be potent. The president of the company was notified yesterday that on or before the expiration of thirty days the cars must be run on a five minutes' schedule, between 7 and 9 a. m. and 4 and 8 p. m. on both the North Capital street route and on the trolley line to Brookland.

SHELTER CALLED FOR.

It is also suggested that some adequate shelter be provided for waiting passengers at Boundary, in accordance with the request of the delegation that called on Wednesday.

After the Commissioners have taken action, not only as to the schedule but in the matter inquired of by Attorney General Harmon, as noted in The Evening Times, the company's time table was received by the Engineer Commissioner, who calls for the running of cars at intervals of ten minutes, and this is exactly what the board says will not be approved.

The thirty days will expire August 15, prior to which it is presumed the company will comply with the order.

The issue between the people and the company has become quite prominent of late. It was the subject of correspondence between Attorney General Harmon and District Attorney Barney; between both these officials and the District Commissioners, and between the Citizens' Association and the Commissioners. It was also the occasion of several interviews and numerous appeals on the part of the people.

ELECTRIC STREET LIGHTING.

A prediction made by The Times of several days since that the Potomac Electric Power Company will get the award of contract for furnishing the street lamps under its bid submitted June 29, seems in a fair way of fulfillment.

The company claims the contract as the only bidder, while the United States Company officials contest the point upon the grounds that there is the city company recognized by Congress and the courts as having any right to it.

The Potomac Company is insisting upon the fulfillment of the terms of the advertisement made for bids, and contend that the United States Company is out of the race by its own act in refusing to submit a proposal, and the Commissioners are believed to have taken that view also.

GOLD WATCH WAS BRASS.

Old Film-Flam Successfully Worked but the Worker Is Arrested.

James F. Eccles, otherwise known as "Reddy," a fake gold watch and a youth with more money than discretion, figured in a film-flam game last night which resulted disastrously to all parties concerned.

This morning Eccles is in the Twelfth street police station. The youth, whose name the police are not free to disclose, is minus $5, and Policemen Kilmartin and Platter are hunting for the owner of a brass watch. "Reddy" Eccles is a cab driver by profession. Testimony Eccles had a brass watch and no money. He took the watch to a jeweler and left it to be repaired, saying he would call for it later. In the evening "Reddy" met a man named Eccles and asked him if he wanted to buy a gold watch. He said he had a very fine one at the jeweler's, which was worth a great deal of money. He did not have any use for it, however, and as the young man was such a good friend of his he would give him the ticket for $5.

The young man bought the ticket and went down to look at his "solid gold watch with a jeweled movement." When he saw it he said the jeweler must be mistaken. The man said that was the time piece Eccles had left to be repaired. The young man consulted the police, and last night Policemen Platter and Kilmartin gathered in "Reddy."

DEATH OF J. B. MALONE.

He Was the Station-keeper of No. 7 Precinct.

Station-keeper J. B. Malone, of the Seventh precinct, died last night at 6 o'clock, at his home, No. 726 Second street northeast, after an illness extending over several months.

Mr. Malone was a young man but had been in bad health for some time. He was granted sick leave some time ago and had been unable to attend to his duties since early spring. No arrangements for the funeral have as yet been made, but it is probable that several officers from the Seventh precinct will act as pallbearers.

Will Camp With National Guard.
Gen. Miles has ordered Light Battery C, Third Artillery, stationed here, and two troops of cavalry from Fort Meyer, Va., to Lewistown, Pa., to encamp with the National Guard, of that State. The troops will be under command of Maj. Lebo, and will reach Lewistown not later than Monday next.

Through Car Route to Atlantic City via Pennsylvania Railroad.
Trains leaving Washington at 11 a. m. week days and 3:15 and 11:35 p. m. daily from direct connections at Broad street station, Philadelphia, with through fast express trains, operating prior cars, for Atlantic City via the New Delaware Bridge Route, thereby obviating the vexatious transfer through Philadelphia, crowded ferry boats and other incidental annoyances of the old route. The Pennsylvania Railroad is the only line affording these increased facilities for reaching the seashore.

HIS BURNS WERE FATAL.

Joseph Montegari Died in Fearful Agony at the Hospital.

Joseph Montegari, an Italian, who was fearfully burned by an explosion of gasoline yesterday, as told in The Evening Times, died last night at Emergency Hospital. The man's sufferings were terrible and the physicians stated that it was the worst case of the kind with which they have ever had to deal.

There was hardly a spot on his body an inch square which was not burned and scorched. The flesh was dropping from his hands and arms when the young man was carried into the operating room, and at first glance it was plain to the surgeons there was but little hope of saving his life. Montegari had inhaled the flames and was burned internally.

Shortly after Montegari had been placed in a ward his father and two sisters reached the hospital and begged to be allowed to see him. They were permitted for a few moments, but the young man was unconscious. The old man and his daughters waited sorrowfully in the hall until death came to the suffering man in the ward.

Their grief was intense when told that Joseph was dead. The father had begged the physicians, who were then making every effort to save the boy. He said he was rich and cried to them that he would give him all he had in the world if they would only save his son. It was very hard to break the news of Joe's death to his father, and it was some minutes before he could be made to understand.

Then his grief burst all bounds. He fell on his knees beside the cot and bent his white head over his boy. In his agony he clutched the charred body of his son to his breast and showered kisses on the white bandages which covered the blackened face.

CRUSHED BETWEEN CARS.

Demas Farrell Severely Hurt at the Metropolitan Sheds.

Demas Farrell, a colored laborer, fifty-six years old, was severely injured last night while coupling cars near the Metropolitan carsheds, just at the rear of Lincoln Park. Farrell was in the act of connecting several trailers when the coupling pin snapped, causing the cars to come together rather forcibly, and pressing him tightly between the bumpers.

The police had the man removed to the hospital, where he was reported late last night as improving. Farrell resides at No. 456 Union Court southwest.

GIVEN A MEDAL OF HONOR.

Massachusetts Man Rewarded for Personal Bravery on the Field.

Robert M. Boddy, now of Haverhill, Mass., formerly first lieutenant Company B, Fortieth New York Volunteers, has been awarded a Congressional medal of honor for most distinguished gallantry in action at Williamsburg, Va., May 6, 1862.

This officer, then a corporal, at great personal risk, voluntarily saved the lives of and brought from the battlefield two wounded comrades in action at Chancellorsville, Va., May 2, 1863, then a sergeant, he voluntarily and at great personal risk, braved the field of battle and saved the life of Capt. George W. Corse, Company C, New York Volunteers.

Webster's Court Martial.
Assistant Judge Advocate General Lockheimer, of the navy, returned from San Francisco yesterday with the record and finding of the court martial which tried Paymaster E. B. Webster for falsehood and conduct unbecoming an officer. The case, after review by Secretary Herbert, may be sent to Buzzard's Bay for President Cleveland's consideration.
